
Promoting Environmental Sustainability through Collaboration: CMR University and Hasiru Dala (A Case Study)

Details:

Collaborators: CMR University and Hasiru Dala, Bangalore Date:

08 May 2022

Location: Bagalur, Bangalore

Objective :

- Restore the ecosystem of the Bagalur lake and address waste management challenges in the vicinity.
- Enhance the visual appeal of the lake's surroundings and promote a culture of sustainability.
- Foster teamwork, leadership, and effective communication skills among the students.
- Inspire the local community to adopt responsible waste management and afforestation practices.

Problem Statement:

CMR University, in partnership with the esteemed NGO Hasiru Dala, initiated a community service activity with the aim of addressing the critical challenges of waste management and environmental degradation surrounding the Bagalur lake. With a robust student body of 105, the objective was to restore the lake's ecosystem, improve its visual appeal, and cultivate a culture of sustainability.

Observations:

CMR University students, under the expert guidance of the DCCC Community Service Team in collaboration with NGO - Hasiru Dala, conducted a thorough assessment of the lake's condition, revealing a distressing accumulation of litter, plastic waste, and debris. This accumulation posed a significant threat to the ecosystem and the well-being of the local community. Contaminated water and degraded surroundings had adverse effects on the natural habitat, as well as the health and quality of life of the nearby residents. Undaunted by the scale of the challenge, the students collaborated in teams, equipped with gloves, trash bags, rakes, and shovels. With unwavering determination, they embarked on the formidable task of meticulously cleaning and clearing the lake's vicinity.

Recognizing the vital role of afforestation in restoring ecological equilibrium, the students also planted a diverse array of saplings, carefully selected to thrive in the local ecosystem.

Outcomes: The community service activity conducted by CMR University in collaboration with Hasiru Dala yielded transformative outcomes across multiple dimensions.

Firstly, the lake underwent a remarkable rejuvenation, shedding its previous state of decay and emerging as a symbol of environmental revitalization. The removal of accumulated waste resulted in a dramatic improvement in water quality, contributing to the restoration of aquatic life. The visually enhanced surroundings stood as a testament to the students' unwavering dedication and the power of collective action.

The afforestation drive spearheaded by the students added not only to the lake's visual appeal but also enhanced the overall ecological resilience of the region. This successful endeavor not only added beauty to the area but also restored vital habitats and bolstered biodiversity.

In addition to the environmental impact, CMR University students' active involvement in this community service activity fostered essential skills such as teamwork, effective communication, and leadership abilities. These skills are invaluable for their future endeavors. The students' passion for environmental conservation served as an inspiration to the local community, generating a collective commitment to responsible waste management and afforestation practices.

In conclusion, the collaboration between CMR University, with its 105 students, and Hasiru Dala showcased the potential of community service activities in addressing pressing environmental issues. The tangible outcomes, encompassing lake cleanup, afforestation, and skill development, exemplify the university's steadfast commitment to sustainability and the transformative power of collective action. The revitalization of the lake's ecosystem and the positive influence on the community underscore the significance of such initiatives in fostering long-term environmental sustainability.
