By India CSR Network - June 22, 2018

Prof. Shiv K. Tripathi, Senior Professor and Dean at CMR University, Hon'ble Shri Vajubhai Vala, Governor of Karnataka, and Prof. MS Shivakumar, Vice Chancellor, CMR University

BENGALURU: Karnataka Governor, Vajubhai Vala on 4th International Yoga Day, Thursday, released the book 'Corporate Yoga – A Primer for Sustainable and Humanistic Leadership' 2018 at Raj Bhawan Bengaluru, authored by Prof. Shiv Tripathi, India and Prof. Wolfgang C. Amann, Academic Programme Director at HEC Paris (Doha). Prof. Shiv Tripathi is Senior Professor and Dean, at CMR University (City Campus), Bengaluru. The book emphasizes on how morality and ethics should be developed in day-to-day decision-making and actions in the organizations.

Speaking on this occasion, the Hon'ble Governor congratulated Prof. Shiv Tripathi and Prof. Amann for their contributions to world of knowledge and management education and wished him success for their future endeavors.

Hon'ble Governor, Vajubhai Vala highlighted the Vaidic culture of knowledge and its' significance to modern society. He said that producing knowledge is essential part of karm yoga. Giving knowledge is big responsibility of teachers and scholars. Hon'ble Governor said that giving knowledge is giving back to the society. He complemented the author for this his contribution to the world of yoga in the form of research based book.

Speaking at the occasion, Prof. Shiv Tripathi explained the purpose of authoring the book. He said, "Many of our societal and corporate problems have become global challenges. We seek to contribute to the leadership development debate by knowledge innovation; to henceforth also search globally for inspiration on how to address challenges. By transforming insights from yogic thinking into the corporate world, new solutions can be designed and executed in order to build more sustainable leadership in our corporations."

KC Ramamurthy, Chairman CMR Group of Institutions and Member of Parliament, Prof. Shiv K. Tripathi, Senior Professor and Dean at CMR University, Vajubhai Vala, Governor of Karnataka, and Prof. MS Shivakumar, Vice Chancellor, CMR University.
